

"International Alliance Promoting Resilience Endowing Cure"

Cultural bases, principles, purposes, organization.

Romeo Lucioni

In the last years the partner-relief interventions for the disability, of the difficulty, of the uneasiness and of the consequence of traumatic, unauthorized and unfavorable facts for the psico-affective development, they have become wealthy of a theoretical knowledge and of a practice therapeutics it specifies and effective that contemplate more and more to the expansion of the functional abilities to withstand and to overcome the disadvantageous personal and social situations.

This cultural and psychological-relief picture has nevertheless sets in evidence that anchors a lot we must have done on the plan of the psycho-genetic study and, above all, on the real intrinsic possibilities of a functional ability that anchor it is not well clear if must be counts to innate trials and/or acquired.

Such considerations have induced to propose the constitution of a group of study multidisciplinary and inter-institutional to deepen the thematic scientific of the resilience and of the cure that has called:

International Alliance Promoting Resilience Endowing Cure

The alliance has the purpose to study the phenomenon of the resiliency, to individualize its relationships with the psico-mental development (psico-affective and psico-cognitivo), to foment in general the growth of the resilient abilities of the childish and adolescent population and, above all, in that subjects that, because of trauma, of troubles and of difficulty, introduces the signs of delay and block of the development and the social integration.

The alliance is established, first of all, to favor the theoretical investigations, but also to develop the practical applications that can be used for a long time more specialized centers and driven by sensitive professionals to the problems of the global rehabilitation and olistica.

Resilience:

the word is not very known even if in the physics of the metals it refers to the resistance that the bodies offer to the breakup for bumps or hits.

Grotberly (1996) used this concept in relationship to the social sciences, making to correspond it to the human ability to face the adversities, the traumas and the uneasiness, to overcome them, to go out strengthens of it and, even transformed, and improved.

Under another profile, resiliency points out the abilities developed by the individual (groups or society) to face personal, family and social psychic conditions that are recognized as unfavorable for the growth, for the social integration, for the learning and for the search of a personal equilibrium that brings comfort and quality of life.

with the term of cure, it is not pretended sanitizer the relational and social life, but, nevertheless, it is tried to offer partner-cultural elements for the integration and psico-affective development, qualified for the growth of the sense of itself, of the development of the personal attitudes, from the organization of a cultural and social circle that as fundamental factor is underlined for more and more giving sense and meaning to the respect of the equal opportunities and the right to the equality and the individual and personal development.

The job of the Alliance founds him on the express bases and adopted by the NI-AMAMI (Network International against the Abuse and the Maltreatments of the Children) in the layout of the "PAPER OF THE INDIVIDUAL AND SOCIAL RIGHTS OF THE CHILDREN."

The Alliance proposes him to handle the formation and the specialization of physicians, psychologists, educators, technical of the health, operating of community, social assistants, etc. to improve their reported job to the rehabilitation to the recovery and the care,; in special way to stimulate the use of fit specific techniques to develop the psychological, behavioral and vocational mechanisms of the resilience.

The objective of the job of search on the theme of the resiliency has not only run over the psychological and metapsicologiche thematic, but also those relative to a special psycho-pedagogy so call to free himself of tizioristic and imperative attitudes, for applications more and more favorable and effective because consistent with the principles derived by the most actual studies on the mechanisms that regulate I develop her psico-mental in its aspects psycho-cognitive and, above all, on those psycho-affective.

The dimension timologica of the education and the formation as that of the psychotherapy and of the psico-rehabilitation, have brought to reorganize the values impositivo-superegoiche for cognitive models more neighbors to the theories of the development of the Itself, of the I-ideal, of the secondary narcissism and of the function "the Father's Name."

These considerations offer an ample cultural base and they create the possibilities to mostly structure a practice tied up riabilitativa to the social development, timologico and report her, in the satisfaction of the personal rights of the children and in accord with her "paper of the individual and social rights of the children."

The alliance founds its development and the integration of the studies on one "Interdisciplinary Technical Commission" that will be formed by personality of the culture, of the psychological and psychoanalytic practice, of the psychiatry and of the paido-psychiatry, of the sociology, of the right, of the justice, of the anthropology and of the neurosciences that will want to give theirs I bring to an initiative that aims to discover the factors of risk protecting and/or for the functions of the resiliency.

This program has in itself a depth ethical and moral sense that has the tendency to trace it line-drives her necessary for the development of a post-industrial society and globalizzata that it requires new you sprout cognitive to be able him to adjust to the rules imposed from the complexity and from the development of the man in the circle that himself has contributed to develop in exponential way.
